Here is great TWO FOR ONE deal! Join the watercolor workshop and you will see a demonstration each day on site, helpful tips as you get started, and a group critique at the end of each day. Ned Reade will demonstrate first thing in the morning at any of the many picturesque spots on the island. He and Ann Howes will work through the day to help you from sketch to finished painting. Both island artists are well known and take their own painting seriously. Intermediate and Advanced artists will learn something each day from one or both of these artists and Beginning artists will learn the basics of how to paint "en plein air" with plenty of supportive artists in the group willing to share their experiences.

Ann is a signature member of the prestigious American Watercolor Society and has led workshops throughout Europe and the eastern United States.

Ned paints in rural Vermont and New York and has spent his career teaching drawing, painting, and art history.

Both artists are well known to visitors to the Old Sculpin Gallery and their works can be seen on that website (OldSculpinGallery.org).
